that they were not going to have such a policy forced upon them. And the big audience heartily agreed with the "fortmost Arizonan" as they testified by the vociferous applause.

Governor Kibbey outlined the truly progressive and constructive platform of the republican party and convinced his listeners that the country, in such a time as this needs an administration a time as this, needs an administration in charge of the nation's affairs that will protect American lives and American property at all times.

He explained the inevitable industrial crisis that will face the nation at

The product, of this condition of labor will be sent to America, the most *profitable market place, and will be sold in competition with the products of American laborers. A tariff for revenue only, explained Governor Kibbey, will be no protection for the American workingmen.
